DEATH HITS RUSSELL HEARLIG

The country is being searched for the wife of Fresno Dan, the accepted heir to the fortune of the late Senator Russell of Missouri. The search is being conducted by counsel for Dakota Dan, the original claimant.

Counsel for Dakota Dan have received information that Fresno Dan was married in the West. They are doing their utmost to find the wife or at least to determine if the report is true.

They think that the second claimant's wife might throw light on the mystery.

Fresno Dan was to be put on the stand for his fifth consecutive day at the will hearing at East Cambridge today, if the death of Attorney William H. Schmitt's family had not necessitated adjournment of the hearing until 10 a. m. Monday.

The circumstances of Fresno Dan's arrival in California also are to be investigated. The claimant from the country of Nevada admitted the other day that he had been arrested for vagrancy in Fresno, although he had $280, and that he was arrested in San Francisco for vagrancy in the same history. He claimed he was discharged on each occasion.

This hearing was moved at the entrance to the courtroom.

Russell case postponed to Monday, July 22.

Many persons had gathered at the courthouse in anticipation of the hearing. They returned to their homes.

People kept coming right along, though, during the greater part of the forenoon until it was found that they had made the trip fruitless.

Fresno Dan Not Happy.

In spite of the fact that he was perpetually on the stand, Fresno Dan is not really enjoying it. Yesterday, he was asked, "Have you been in prison?" he was obliged to answer, "No, not yet." Likewise, he was asked whether he was ever arrested for vagrancy. He answered that he had been arrested for vagrancy in Fresno, although he had $280, and that he was arrested in San Francisco for vagrancy in the same history. He claimed he was discharged on each occasion.

Four Faces in the Famous Russell Will Contest

for Middlesex County, Cambridge, Mass.

Years of July 17th received and contented. In reply I beg to call your attention to the fact that in my opinion you are delaying the question. I do not desire now or at any other time to enter a contest with you in a letter writing. But I do demand in the name of justice and fair play that you, as public prosecutor, duly elected by the citizens of the county, perform your sworn duty regardless of fear or favor.

"Secret Out Fakes"
You excuse for not acting in the premises appears to me rather tame and evasive. The county of Middlesex will afford the expense of investigation when a conspiracy, such as never before has been enacted in our Commonwealth is now in progress.

—one or the other of these statements is being wronged. He should have refused. The other is an impostor, a faker, and violator of our laws, all should be prosecuted.

Which is the faker and the impostor? If it is "Dakota Dan," he is willing to go before the grand jury and have his case investigated.

If it is Fresno Dan, his case should be investigated. Is Fresno Dan willing? We welcome a full and speedy investigation by the proper authorities. Therefore, I renew my demand for a speedy grand jury inquiry into this late Russell case. I think the citizens of this State will agree with me that a "voluntary" grand jury, and the courts unimpaired and unimpeded should try to reach the truth. If such action is not taken, the property and the rights of sons of the State, not as a political partisan. This is no time or place for politics or personalities. It is considered when as vital a matter which concerns the whole community as it is a stake.

Trusting that it will not be necessary for me to renew this appeal, I remain, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM B. SCHURMAN.

CLEMENT L. POLLOCK FINDS OLD PRECEDENT FOR THE RUSSELL CASE.
By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK.
And they called the name of the city Dan, after the name of Dan, near father, who was born into Lowell's household, the name of the city was taken at the first—Judges will, 29, C. R. 1406.

If the two Dams who are battling for a bright light in the East Cambridge court want a precedent, they will agree for changing their names from something else to Dan. I've dug up for about a hundred years, and the Attorney-General appears for the board. The suit is an application for a writ of certiorari to bring up the record before the board and set a decision which will allow the gas company to reverse the finding of the board.

On June 15 the board refused to allow the gas company to issue 1,100 shares of stock for construction and additions to the plant. It refused it because the laws of Massachusetts provide that no company shall declare any stock dividends or divide the proceeds of the sale of stock among its stockholders. In the last five years, in addition to the regular dividends of 10 per cent per annum, the gas company has declared two extra dividends, one of 15 per cent, and one of 20 per cent, the amount being paid about what it now wishes to issue stock for. The board held that this was indirectly a stock dividend, because if the company had taken the money which it paid out to these extra dividends and paid for the proposed construction, it would not now have to ask to issue stock, and that it was indirectly violating the law relative to stock dividends.

The board says in its decision that if the company can do this, it not only compels the public to contribute all the additional investment required for the payment, but also may have this contribution permanently represented by capital stock upon which the public must pay dividends forever.

This is the most noteworthy piece of litigation ever in the Commonwealth in reference to public service corporations. If the Supreme Court should reverse the decision of the board of gas and electric light commissioners, instead of dividends of 10 per cent, 15 per cent, and 20 per cent, the public would see the light upon the company's earnings and paying cash here to prevent its dividends of from 10 to 20 per cent per annum, as such decision would mean that the companies would have a right to extract from the public enough money to pay dividends upon all of the property used in the business, without regard to the capitalization. It would bring up many new questions as to how this statute is to be applied, whether by cost, loss depreciation, or by investment value, and many other interesting questions.

RECOVER TEN BODIES; TEN OTHERS DEAD IN CLOUDBURST
RENO, Nev., July 19.—Ten bodies have been recovered, and from nine to ten other persons are believed dead as the result of a cloudburst thirty miles from Lovelock, which destroyed the mining camp of Mesquite and partially destroyed the camp of Seven Tompkins.

This is the most noteworthy piece of litigation ever in the Commonwealth in reference to public service corporations. If the Supreme Court should reverse the decision of the board of gas and electric light commissioners, instead of dividends of 10 per cent, 15 per cent, and 20 per cent, the public would see the light upon the company's earnings and paying cash here to prevent its dividends of from 10 to 20 per cent per annum, as such decision would mean that the companies would have a right to extract from the public enough money to pay dividends upon all of the property used in the business, without regard to the capitalization. It would bring up many new questions as to how this statute is to be applied, whether by cost, loss depreciation, or by investment value, and many other interesting questions.

ARCHBALD GETS TELL JULY 29 FOR ANSWER

WASHINGTON, July 19.—A request for time to file an answer to the impeachment charges against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the Commerce Court, was the only action taken by his counsel, A. S. Washington, when the defendant appeared at the bar of the Senate at 12:30 today.

After a debate, the impeachment court adjourned July 20 as the date on which Archbald must make answer. Senator William P. Frye, of Pennsylvania, speaking in favor of granting the request, said that he would give no indication as to what time he intended to present his case. He argued in favor of granting the request, saying that Archbald had not yet been indicted and that he was entitled to a full and fair trial before going to the Senate with his plea.

Solemn Proceedings.
The proceedings began with unusual solemnity. The first order was a call of the roll of those Senators to whom the oath of judges of impeachment had not been administered last Tuesday. Some of the Senators of record were present. Senator Clark, chairman of the Senate committee in charge of the impeachment trial, ordered several resolutions governing procedure, which were agreed to. It was ordered that the managers on the part of the House be notified that the Senate was ready to proceed.

Immediately the House managers, headed by Representative Clayton, came to the Senate and presented their credentials. They were seated in the bar of the Senate. A moment later Judge Archbald, accompanied by his counsel, also appeared within the bar of the Senate and took seats opposite those occupied by the House managers.

Called to Bar.
President Taft then directed the sergeant-at-arms to call Judge Archbald to the bar. Standing immediately in front of the President's chair, the sergeant-at-arms called:

"Robert W. Archbald, Robert W. Archbald, Robert W. Archbald, you are called to the bar."

President Taft, after reading the articles, said that he was not going to take any action on the impeachment charges until after the defendant had made answer. He said that he was not going to take any action on the impeachment charges until after the defendant had made answer.

Pleads for More Time.
Attorney Washington urged the time to be allowed several days in which to prepare his answer to the three articles of impeachment. It was agreed that the House managers would be notified that the Senate was ready to proceed.

Plenty of 'Em

The town is all excited out in Colorado Springs. Where foreign visitors have dug up fossil things. And say the fossils indicate that, in his size and shape, The Colorado settler was extremely like the ape.

They couldn't get on any out in Colorado way. Because the ones were ancestors of people there today. A lot of persons on the map, I wouldn't fear to bet. Not only came from apes but haven't evolved yet.

LATIMER HIT BY BLACKJACK

of Police Superintendent William Pierce, who was on one of the cars in the motorcade, testified that his car was torn and that he was assaulted by some one, but that he did not see the man who did the assault.

John P. Casey, a "crazy" conductor who was on one of the cars in the motorcade, testified that his car was torn and that he was assaulted by some one, but that he did not see the man who did the assault.

Inspector Pierce then told his story on the witness stand. He said: "I was on duty that night, riding around in an automobile in Charleston. We came over to be present when a meeting of Elevated street carmen was held. We followed our group after the meeting."

"At a point on Barker Hill street, we saw two cars standing and thirty or forty men about. I said to them: 'Follow, you had to go home or I'll have to call you.'"

"It was 11:15, one man, a short man with dark clothes, brandished his two or three times. I talk to him saying to him: 'I had my own way in my pocket. I would like to see you do that.'"

Uses His Blackjack.
"I struck him with my blackjack several times over the right arm with a black blackjack. The man was hit by the right side of the head and right arm."

"I struck him probably three or four times," continued Inspector Pierce, "when he got into the automobile he said: 'You will be sorry for this. I am Captain Latimer of the militia. I will see you in court. What am I charged with?' I told him: 'You are charged with assault.'"

Walter Sergeant, Inspector George W. Higgins and Mr. Higgins, a British chauffeur who were in the automobile with Inspector Pierce, corroborated his story. The government testimony ended.

has to get Zelig to do something for him and Zelig was promised as a reward free from the charge of carrying a concealed weapon, now pending against him. Zelig's lawyer says he is not in town and has not been since July 10.

Developments to Date.
The important developments in the case and the known facts concerning the identity of the numbers up to today were: 1—Police Commissioner Charles A. Becker went to Far Rockaway on Wednesday night and had a conference with Danahy Jack Ross, whose name was conspicuously linked with the police "system" which Rosenthal threatened to expose.

2—As a result of a conference with Lieutenant Becker and not away at the request of the gamblers as stated by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty—Ross came to New York at 9 o'clock yesterday and surrendered at Police Headquarters.

3—Ross was arrested, charged with homicide and sent to the Tombs without bail.

4—Ross gave to District Attorney Whitman the name "Schappe" as that of one of the men in the car with him on the night of the assassination.

Becker's Wall Street Operations.
5—Another man on the car was a slender, black-haired, swarthy individual answering the description of a Tenderloin character who has been closely associated with Lieutenant Becker and the work of his strong arm squad. This man recently figured in a murder trial.

6—It was established that the Grand Jury will investigate Lieutenant Becker's alleged Wall Street operations as told by Rosenthal to District Attorney Whitman. Colonel Henry R. Stenographer, a stock broker whose automobile is constantly used by Becker, may be called as a witness.

7—District Attorney Whitman sent a stinging order to Police Commissioner Walcott's communication of the previous day, which implied that the case was being made instantly to launch the police force as a whole. The letter tells the Police Commissioner it is his duty to defend the department.

8—Shiping, the chauffeur of the murder car, in an amplified confession, told the District Attorney, through his counsel, Aaron Levy, that he was given to understand by the assassins who were his passengers that the police would not interfere.

9—"There is to be an immediate roundup of all gamblers in the city and individuals who are in a position to testify as to the conditions which led to the killing of Rosenthal and the game's situation in general. The hunting law will be invoked to reach these prospective witnesses."

10—Public-opinion citizens have employed William J. Burns to conduct an independent investigation into alleged corrupt police conditions. The famous detective will work under the direction of District Attorney Whitman.

Whitman's View Confirmed.
The District Attorney, who from the moment that Rosenthal was murdered, has asserted that the police permitted the crime, today said that the trail was leading just where he first thought it would go. In the light of new facts gained in a secret where he first thought it would go, the District Attorney is more certain than ever that the police permit will witness to police graft with the police themselves.

"Each bit of evidence," said Mr. Whitman, "as it is added to the other parts of the case, is adding to the picture of the crime. The trail leads where I thought it would."

TROUBLED WITH DANDRUFF 20 YEARS
Dry Skin on Scalp. Would Show Baldly on Coat Collar. Cured After Few Treatments with Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

743 Third Ave., New York, N. Y.—"Having been troubled with dandruff for twenty years, I have tried numerous remedies, but without success. After trying Cuticura Soap and Ointment, I found it a great relief. I thought I would give Cuticura Soap and Ointment a trial. The scalp became dry and itchy, but I gave it a good brushing every morning and evening, but through the day the dandruff would show baldly on my coat collar."

"I used the Cuticura Soap to shampoo my hair and rubbed in a little Cuticura ointment. After two treatments I found the head clear and healthy, free from all dandruff. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured the dandruff and now I use Cuticura to keep it from returning." (Signed) W. J. B. New York, N. Y., July 2, 1912.

For dandruff and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment. Apply the Cuticura Soap to the scalp and hair, and rub in a little Cuticura ointment. After two treatments I found the head clear and healthy, free from all dandruff. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured the dandruff and now I use Cuticura to keep it from returning." (Signed) W. J. B. Many "Men Who Live Softly" in Boston, Says T. R.

They are men who find life easy, who live softly, and who are overcome by the fear that any effort to improve the general welfare would jar the present system sufficiently to cause them inconvenience.

These men are found in the New York and Boston social and business or professional clubs, in the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, in the Bar Associations.

They are free from physical toil and hardship; they live under conditions that tell for ease, that indeed tend rather to too much self-indulgent softness and, therefore, alas! to that dreadful selfishness which is born of fear.

These men are not hard-hearted; they are charitably inclined; but their vision is narrow and their sympathies are restricted.—Theodore Roosevelt in Outlook editorial, "Men Who Live Softly."

TO PUBLISH STATE- MENTS AS RECEIVED

Will Help Others to Learn About New Tonic

As fast as they are received at Boston drug stores statements by people who have tried the new tonic, Tona Vita, will allow their names to be used will be published.

In this way nervous, rundown men and women of Boston can learn just what this tonic is accomplishing for people in a similar condition.

The following statement is by William J. Young, 39 Regulus Street, Boston.

"This Tona Vita has done more for me than any medicine I have ever taken. I got the tonic a short time ago and am now feeling better than I have for a long time."

"Before using this tonic I was completely run down. I slept poorly, had stomach trouble and at times I would be very nervous. I had little strength or energy and my work became a burden to me."

"The first few days I noticed a great improvement. In fact, I began to improve after the first dose of Tona Vita."

I could hardly believe it myself and thought it must be my imagination, as I had tried so many different remedies without relief. I have now taken about a bottle of the tonic and I am feeling better every day. I sleep well, eat well and have much more strength. The worn-out feeling has left me and I am not nervous as I was. This is a marvelous tonic, judging by what it has done for me."

No medicine can be successful unless it has a mission to accomplish. Tona Vita has a mission—it is introduced in this country to make tired out, debilitated men and women healthier, happier and better prepared to cope with life. A similar preparation did the for thousands in Europe, and Tona Vita will be just as successful in the United States.

If all Bostonians who are struggling along, depressed in mind and body by nervous debility, unable to get any real enjoyment out of living, will give the tonic a trial, Tona Vita will lift the burden of ill health from thousands in this city alone.

There is little in life for an individual who is nervous, depressed and worn out mentally and physically. Positively the first dose of Tona Vita benefits any one in this condition and renewed strength and energy are gained every day. The tonic is on sale at all leading drug stores in Boston.

DAVID I. WALSH BECKONS CUPID

PITTSBURGH, July 18.—David I. Walsh threw his hat into the matrimonial ring today. The candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor is also a candidate for matrimony. He said so himself.

Clearly, quite gently, the line forms at the other end of the building. Don't crowd.

A few days ago when the candidates of "David" Walsh and of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier for Boston for the nomination for Governor were being discussed Governor Fox remarked that only a married man could qualify for Governor.

Since then Mr. Walsh has announced his candidacy for second place on the ticket. But the matrimonial suggestion was not taken up till today when he was asked: "A great deal is being said about you being a bachelor. What have you to say about it?"

Must Rush to Qualify.

"Well, I'll tell you," replied "Dave," setting back in his chair. "I am giving this matter serious consideration. I have been told that I should be a married man if I expect to be Governor. And I must admit that if the same qualifications are necessary for Lieutenant Governor, for instance, I hope to take the oath of office for Lieutenant Governor."

"Why, after all, is not a bachelor capable of making a good chief executive?"

"Why not?" pursued the candidate. "There is added with the bachelor's term of single life."

"Does it not require sometimes a great amount of courage, tremendous self-reliance and indomitable perseverance to remain single?"

"Oh, you simply must crowd like that. You'll wear the candidates down. Dave, you must essential for a good Governor to be married."

The candidate paused a moment, then came out and showed how the leaves in working. He said:

"A Good Suggestion."

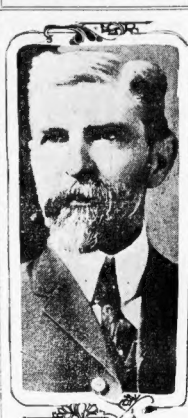

"On the whole, however, I think the Governor's suggestion a good one. I am going to throw my hat in the ring as an going to become a candidate for the honors of a bachelor. I will need the Governor's help. I hope to give me his assistance, politically as well as matrimonially."

With this Macaulay reply for all to the after as well as to the State House. "Dave" reminded his matrimonial declarations.

Friends of the candidate, however, were assured that he will need no aid from the State in order to get married. They said that all he needs is his present declaration that "the Bachelor is willing."

It is Leap Year and our girl has a perfect right to take "Dave" Walsh as his wed.

SUIT OVER PROPERTY CITY SOLD FOR TAXES

A restraining order was issued today by Judge Loring in the Superior Court against Harmon H. Rogers which is enforceable until week and prevents him from selling or transferring the property numbered 1090 India street until the case is heard upon its merits. The order was issued upon the petition of George Hallett of Yarmouth and nine others, who claim to own the property. The property, assessed for $41,000, was sold in trust, and on April 22, 1909, was sold to Rogers by the city for unpaid sewer assessments, amounting to $68,000. The petitioners claim they did not know the property had been sold for taxes until July 12, and on Wednesday made Rogers an offer to redeem the property, but he refused.

RECONCILIATION OF MARLBOROUGH'S OFF

LONDON, July 18.—Hopes of an immediate reconciliation between the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Constance Vanderbilt, have been shattered. The Duchess instead turned away and the Duke did not appear. It is a fact, however, that both met at the home of a mutual friend and agreed to relieve the awkwardness of their joint and lonely cases and friends by acting in an agreeable manner toward each other.

WHY M'GRAW'S BUT FOR TYLER

By BILL BAILEY.

John J. McGraw, alarmed at the manner in which the Cubs are slipping and sliding at the end of the season, is willing to give in exchange for the star outstopper of the Boston club. The deal has gone through. Again, it was not. Manager King admitted that he had an offer for Tyler, but declined to give up any of his players.

While the league was in St. Louis McGraw sent a telegram to King. This telegram was received before the "circuit" went on the road for their last game with the Cubs at Chicago. McGraw offered $100,000 for the star outstopper of the Boston club. The deal has gone through. Again, it was not. Manager King admitted that he had an offer for Tyler, but declined to give up any of his players.

It would be a mistake for McGraw to think that he could make the deal. Tyler is a star player and his loss would be a great blow to the Cubs. McGraw should have been more careful in his offer.

It's difficult to see just where the Cubs would profit. They need outstopper. McGraw should have been more careful in his offer.

RALEIGH'S COLUMN

It was an awful crime to rob the Red Sox of nine safe hits and ten scored runs in one inning at Fenway Park. And they had not completed that inning. It was too bad. The rules of the game do not let them do this to today's world.

HOOPER, Yerkes and Spence all hit twice at Fenway Park in the first inning and all three scored twice. Everybody else, except Lewis, Gardner and Wagner scored a safe hit and a run, and Gardner scored a run.

IT was pathetic to see Eddie Cicotte, the ex-Red Sox pitcher, try to stem that tide of hits and runs in the fifth. He was a fine pitcher, but he was not in his best form.

THE first man who went to Eddie's relief was his old pal, Lefty Spence. He was a fine pitcher, but he was not in his best form.

IT was a mistake for McGraw to think that he could make the deal. Tyler is a star player and his loss would be a great blow to the Cubs.

Expose the Crook or Crooks in the Russell Case

One Man, at Least, Is a Perjurer, and There May Be a Great Deal More in the Remarkable Case That Requires Action by the Grand Jury—District Attorney Higgins Should Take Hold of the Matter at Once.

Daniel Russell died in Melrose five years ago. He was one of the most prominent citizens of the place. He left property valued at half a million dollars. It is supposed to have increased since until it may reach three-quarters of a million by this time.

At the time of Mr. Russell's death there was only one known direct heir—William C. Russell, a son. Another son, Daniel Blake Russell, had left home in 1885. He had not been heard from.

But Daniel Russell did not cut him off. There was a provision of the will that should Daniel Blake Russell return within twenty years, he should share the property with his brother.

No effort was made to run down Daniel Blake Russell. But two years ago a man came to Boston and declared that he was Daniel Blake Russell. He came from North Dakota. Neither William C. Russell nor the executors of the estate would admit his identity. A court trial of more than six months resulted in a decision that the man now known as "Dakota Dan" had not proven that he was the real heir.

Then appeared a new claimant from Fresno, California. Three days after he reached the scene he was taken to the Russell home in Melrose and later accepted by William C. Russell as his brother. The second claimant did not appear in the first legal fight.

"Dakota Dan," before a master, is again fighting to establish that he is the real heir and that "Fresno Dan" is an impostor. This battle is now on in the East Cambridge Court. "Fresno Dan" has sworn that he is the real Daniel Blake Russell.

One of these two men at least is an IMPOSTOR AND PERJURER.

District Attorney Higgins of Middlesex County says that he does not think that he or the Grand Jury should interfere at this time, while the case is being tried on its merits, nor should the county bear the expense of deciding who is the heir and who is the impostor.

The fact remains, however, that ONE OF TWO MEN AT LEAST HAS STOOD UP IN COURT IN EAST CAMBRIDGE AND HAS SWORN TO A LIE.

A rank impostor is flaunting himself IN THE FACE OF THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY OF MIDDLESEX COUNTY with the audacity of a Western train robber. He should be arrested and jailed.

District Attorney Higgins and the Grand Jury are the constituted authorities to attend to this matter. THE AMERICAN believes that the sooner you get a crook behind the bars the better. Middlesex County ought to applaud Higgins and pay the bills willingly if he imprisons the impostor in this remarkable battle for an inheritance.

THE AMERICAN believes that Mr. Higgins should present this case to the Grand Jury. THERE MAY BE A GREAT DEAL MORE CROOKEDNESS IN IT THAN APPEARS ON THE SURFACE. If there is, the sooner it is exposed the better.

All this talk of PERJURY, FRAUD AND IMPROPER INFLUENCES in connection with this case should be exposed by the lawful authorities.

Too Bad Mr. Bryan Did Not Feel for Mrs. Bennett as He Felt for Mrs. Taft

If Bryan Had Developed His Touching Regard for the Feelings of Women Earlier, Mrs. Bennett Would Not Have Been Compelled to Go Into Court to Keep from Mr. Bryan the Modest Fortune That Mr. Bennett Left Behind Him.

Copyright, 1912, by American Journal Company

Mr. Bryan, with drooping eyes and solemn smirk, tells us that in the course of his betrayal of Champ Clark at Baltimore he refrained from attacking President Taft "because Mrs. Taft was in the audience." He said that all his fine and fiery exposure of Taft was swallowed and lost to the world "because he could not bear to hurt Mrs. Taft's feelings."

It is our opinion that Mrs. Taft or any other sensible woman would have been just about as much influenced by an attack by Bryan upon an able, respectable man like Taft as she would be influenced by some donkey braying over a rail fence.

None the less, it is comforting to learn that in his mature years Mr. Bryan feels that the feelings of women should be considered.

He was not so particular always. This is clear to those that recall the interesting case of Mrs. Bennett, who was compelled to go into court and fight for her rights and for the money that her husband left behind him.

If Mr. Bryan had had his way the money which Mrs. Bennett now owns would be in Mr. Bryan's pocket. But, luckily, Mrs. Bennett was able to get justice in court and she got her husband's money.

Perhaps Mr. Bryan will tell us just at what particular stage in his career he reached the conclusion that women's rights and feelings should be respected. The story of his conversion would be interesting.

Governor Bass Says the Appeal of the Progressives Is to
"the Forgotten Man"

Who Is This Forgotten Man? Let Us Ask the Governor of New Hampshire: "I Say the Forgotten Man," Writes Governor Bass in His Sunday AMERICAN Editorial, "Because as Soon as a Candidate Is Once Elected, He Seems in Some Strange Way to Forget the Opinions He Has Voiced and the Promises He Has Made."

The editor of the coming Sunday AMERICAN, as our readers are aware, will be the progressive young Governor of New Hampshire, Robert Perkins Bass of Peterborough.

Governor Bass is a statesman of the progressive type. He is one of the seven Governors who appealed to Colonel Roosevelt to enter the pre-convention battle with President Taft. In Republican States, that battle was IN THE MAIN successful.

Governor Bass comes to Boston on Saturday at the invitation of the AMERICAN to act for one day as editor of the Sunday AMERICAN. He comes WILLINGLY AND CHEERFULLY. We appreciate, as we know our readers must, the Governor's great courtesy.

Governor Bass is a Republican.

Governor Plaisted of Maine, who edited Last Sunday's AMERICAN, is a DEMOCRAT. And so with the Governors who follow Bass as our mid-Summer Sunday editors. Foss of Massachusetts, DEMOCRAT; Fother of Rhode Island and Mand of Vermont, REPUBLICANS.

In inviting the New England Governors to edit the Sunday AMERICAN there was NO THOUGHT OF POLITICS. Nor should we think of suggesting to the executives the subjects of their editorial arguments, much less limit them in ANY WAY WHATSOEVER.

And so it comes about that Governor Bass has chosen the progressive movement for his theme, the "FORGOTTEN MAN" for his subject.

Governor Bass does not write about the PROGRESSIVE PARTY. His Sunday editorial has to do with the progressive MOVEMENT, a vastly different enterprise. The New Hampshire Governor says frankly that Democrats, NO LESS THAN REPUBLICANS, have had much to do with the progressive movement.

We can think today of no better advice to the men and women of New England than TO BE SURE AND READ THE GOVERNOR BASS EDITORIAL IN THE SUNDAY AMERICAN. Especially do we urge this reading upon EVERY FORGOTTEN MAN IN NEW ENGLAND.

Governor Bass writes of, and to, the FORGOTTEN MAN.

WHO IS THIS FORGOTTEN MAN, who thus becomes the subject of a Governor's editorial?

We know of no better way to answer the question—and at the same time give our readers a foretaste of the Bass editorial in the Sunday AMERICAN—than by quoting a paragraph or two from the Governor's article:

"The power behind the Progressive movement"—writes Governor Bass in his Sunday AMERICAN editorial—"has sprung very largely from an appeal to the hitherto forgotten man; the average voter, who is also the consumer; THE MAN WHO EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS ONCE A YEAR OR ONCE IN TWO YEARS AT THE POLLS, AND IS THEN SILENT; the man who is never represented by a highly paid lobby before the Legislature or at Congress.

"I say the forgotten man, because AS SOON AS A CANDIDATE IS ONCE ELECTED AS A DELEGATE, OR AS A REPRESENTATIVE, OR TO CONGRESS, HE SEEMS IN SOME STRANGE WAY TO FORGET THE OPINIONS HE HAS VOICED AND THE PROMISES HE HAS MADE TO INDUCE PEOPLE TO VOTE FOR HIM. For a time he comes less and less in contact with the men and women he represents. He thinks no more of his constituents, and seems to forget how they feel, until he again seeks their support.

"In striking contrast is the system which seeks to control legislation, and which IMMEDIATELY SURROUNDS THIS MAN WITH AN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT ATMOSPHERE.

"The lobby and those politicians engaged to create sentiment for or against a measure or a man envelope him in the Legislature, or at a convention, with their INSIDIOUS INFLUENCE.

"Unless he is an exceptionally strong man, it all has its effect.

"LITTLE BY LITTLE HIS POINT OF VIEW IS CHANGED.

"He gradually comes to believe that one must promise some rather wild things in order to be elected, but fortunately need not live up to these promises after election.

"So the man who casts the ballot gradually comes to be THE FORGOTTEN MAN.

"He it is whom the Progressives represent. It is to him they appeal for support."

The chances are that this statement of the case of the forgotten man—the AVERAGE CITIZEN—will appeal strongly to that individual and that HE WILL WANT TO READ ALL THERE IS OF IT. He can find it nowhere else than in next Sunday's AMERICAN, of which the Governor of New Hampshire will be the editor.

Governor Editor Bass, by the way, is not yet thirty-nine years old. He is the YOUNGEST OF THE NEW ENGLAND GOVERNORS. He is also the author of the New Hampshire primary law, the most complete, it is said, this side of the Mississippi river.

Two years ago Governor Bass distanced his Old Guard rivals in the race for the Republican nomination for Governor. Then he won the election by 7,271 votes over his Democratic opponent.

Governor Plaisted's edition of the Sunday AMERICAN was a great success. We have no hesitancy in saying that THE GOVERNOR BASS SUNDAY AMERICAN WILL BE ONE OF THE TRIUMPHS OF THE JOURNALISTIC YEAR.
